Every year now, we're faced with the enormous and difficult task of preserving the coastline. The work demands financial and human resources on a daily basis, as well as experience and expertise.

One of the main challenges in this region is to combine nature and tourism.

*We take branches from the local forest and lay them out. You can see the result of 2 years of work here: sand covers over the branches and grass grows through.
In doing so, the dunes are strengthened and the coast stabilised.*

The landscape of this area has been shaped as a result of humans and nature living together over long periods of time.
